

1. I may look for an apartment today

1. I may wait until tomorrow

2. Computers perform many repetitive tasks.

2. They cannot replace people's ability to think.

3. The woman had little hope for recovery

3. Her husband believed she could fight the disease.

4. Do you want to spend the evening at home
watching TV

4. Would you rather go bowling?

5. The traffic was heavier than usual

5. We were late for our appointment.

6. You need to inspect each part carefully

6. You may miss some of the defective ones.

7. Exercise helps to strengthen your heart

7. It also helps to control your weight.

8. I woke up late

8. I got to work on time.

9. We climbed the steep hill

9. We stopped to enjoy the view

10.Plants are not very expensive gifts

10.They are readily available almost everywhere.

11. I like onions

11. I can't eat them.

12. In Illinois, citizens were encouraged to spend more money.

12. In Texas, citizens were urged to put more of their money in savings accounts.

13. You cannot smoke in that part of the building

13. You can have food or drink there.

14. I really like living on the West Coast

14. I miss the change of seasons in the midwest.

15. You have completed the probationary period successfully

15. You are eligible for union membership

16. The homeowners obviously didn't know about the flood conditions.

16. They would have begun making preparations for it sooner.

17. I found a new coat I liked.

17. I decided not to buy it.

JOINING SENTENCES

and but for or nor so yet	and but for or nor so yet